Yes - But

My Client needs the employee back at work or the employee removed in order to get the job done?

- ▶ So, when can I advise my client to use 12.6(a)1?

Did your client engage in the interactive process?

- ▶ What is the interactive process?
 - ▶ A process designed to enable the employer to obtain relevant information to determine the feasibility of providing an accommodation without causing an undue hardship.

Interactive Process

- ▶ As a general rule, the employee must inform the employer that an accommodation is needed.
 - ▶ The information required by the employer to determine if additional leave may cause undue hardship will be fact specific for each employee.
 - ▶ Some things to focus on by the employer is:
 - ▶ the specific reason for the additional time off
 - ▶ whether the time will be a block of time and the duration

Interactive Process

- ▶ Communication after an Employee Request Leave
 - ▶ An employer may obtain information from the employee's health care provider (with permission) to confirm or elaborate on the information the employee provided;
 - ▶ Employers may request the health care provider respond to specific questions designed to enable the employer to understand need for additional leave;

Interactive Process

- ▶ Communication after Employee Request Leave
Con't
 - ▶ The employer may inquire from the health care provider the amount and type of leave;
 - ▶ Whether reasonable accommodations other than leave may be effective.

Interactive Process

- ▶ Communication During Leave but Prior to Return
 - ▶ The interactive process may continue after the initial request has been granted if no specific return date has been set or if additional leave beyond originally requested.

Interactive Process

- ▶ Interactive Process and Return to Work
 - ▶ If the employee provides the employer a doctor's clearance to return to work with restrictions, the employer cannot invoke a 100% release before returning policy.
 - ▶ The employer may ask why the restrictions are required and how long they may last.

Interactive Process

- ▶ Interactive Process and Return to Work Con't
 - ▶ Things to considered after a request for accommodation:
 - ▶ Specific accommodation requested
 - ▶ Reason for accommodation
 - ▶ Length of time for accommodation
 - ▶ Possible alternative accommodation
 - ▶ Would the accommodation cause undue hardship

Does the accommodation cause an Undue Hardship?

- ▶ Factors to Consider:
 - ▶ Amount and/or length of additional leave
 - ▶ Frequency of Leave (Intermittent)
 - ▶ Impact of the employee's absence on coworkers and specific job duties
 - ▶ Impact on employer's operation and its ability to serve customers/clients appropriately and timely
 - ▶ Indefinite Leave will be considered undue hardship

Now Use of 12.6(a)1 May Be Appropriate

- ▶ Once your client has engaged in the interactive process and legitimately determines that removal is still necessary, the use of 12.6(a)1 may be appropriate.
- ▶ Make sure there is documentation of engagement in the interactive process.

Hypothetical

- ▶ Employee A was a classified employee with an agency of the state. Employee fell while at work and ruptured his bilateral quad tendons on both legs, requiring surgery. He requested and received FMLA leave.
- ▶ While out on sick leave, employee requested to work from home. Agency failed to respond to the request.
- ▶ On July 19, 2011 employee's doctor released him to return to work with an accommodation of the use of a wheel chair.
- ▶ On July 27, 2011, employee notified agency he could return to work with accommodations.
- ▶ On July 29, 2011, agency had delivered to his home a pre-deprivation notice claiming he had exhausted sick leave and as of July 22, 2011, exhausted FMLA.

Hypothetical

- ▶ In the pre-deprivation notice, agency stated that employee was not cleared to return to work until August 1, 2011, and agency needed to resume duties of employee's position in a "normal" fashion.
- ▶ On August 1, 2011, employee was released to return to work, however, agency removed him under 12.6(a)1 same day.
- ▶ Question – Is this a violation of the ADAAA?

Jurisdictional Issues

- ▶ If employee files an appeal alleging discrimination under ADA with the Appeals Divisions, under Agricultural v Sumrall, the Commission is going to dismiss for lack of SMJ.
- ▶ However, the employee can still file a claim with the EEOC.
- ▶ Does the state have sovereign immunity from an ADA claim in court if granted a right to sue letter? See Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama v. Garrett 531 U.S. 356 (2001) But see also footnote 9

So your client removed the employee is this the End of the Story?

- ▶ If your client removes someone under C.S.R. 12.6(a)1, and has NOT engaged in the interactive process, you may prevail on the Civil Service Appeal, but what about the EEOC and a federal question lawsuit?
- ▶ ALWAYS advise your client to engage in the interactive process before removing someone under C.S.R. 12.6(a)1.
